The purpose of this letter is to fulfill requirements per 49 CFR 566 for new vehicle manufacturers.

DesignLine International Holdings, LLC (a Delaware corporation) headquartered at the above address recently purchased a manufacturer of transit buses in New Zealand and intends to import these vehicles into the United States, fully compliant with all applicable FMVSS and EPA regulations, for commercial re-sale.

The vehicles will be manufactured within the 23,000 to 29,000 GVWR categories and built from steel, aluminum, engines, transmissions and axles purchased from U.S. manufacturers as well as open global market suppliers. DesignLine International Holdings, LLC will deliver the buses to end-user customers as "complete vehicles" within the definition as "final stage manufacturer". DesignLine manufacturers both the chassis and the body of each vehicle with optional content to suit customer specifications.
